TIPS FOR THE NEW SEMESTER

Beginning a new semester is an opportunity to start making small changes that lead to great results in our academic lives. If your goal is to become a better student this semester, you better get into this guide!

Start managing your time.

It is common for students to let go of deadlines and forget about projects until the last day to handing it in. In order to not fall into pressure and to avoid stress, it is better to plan what is ahead for us. A long night of finishing a project can be 1 hour each day dedicated to that project instead.

Google it!

Or use Bing, Ecosia, or ChatGPT. It is vital to ask the right questions. Instead of "what is a morpheme?" search for "morpheme definition". By eliminating words from the search, more specific results will show up, and you can save a lot of time. Remember, instead of "what are the vowels in the IPA?", search for "IPA vowels phonetics".

Take better notes.

Have you heard about the Cornell note taking system? Developed in the 50's, it is a way of improving your memos by dividing them in three: key points, notes, and a summary. In the notes part you can write the most important things you hear, and then get the key points from there. At the end you can write the summary for you to remember the most vital things from the class.

Ask everything.

Do not be afraid of learning. Do not let any question behind. That can make a difference in your practice, essay, or exam. Your teachers will gladly answer your questions, as you will show that you are willing to learn and hungry for knowledge.

Follow us!

Oh oh oh oh oh oh you know the deal! We are here to help you out in everything we can. This is a community in which we want everyone to fulfil their objectives by helping them throughout their journey in the university.

ENHANCING ENGLISH LANGUAGE TEACHING WITH CHATGPT

Written by Chatsonic

In the ever-evolving landscape of education, teachers are constantly seeking innovative approaches to engage their students and enhance the learning experience. The emergence of artificial intelligence and advanced language models like ChatGPT have opened up new possibilities for English language teaching. As an English teacher, incorporating ChatGPT into your classroom can revolutionize the way you teach and empower your students. In this comprehensive guide, we will explore various strategies and practical tips on how to effectively use ChatGPT to enhance English language teaching.

1. Understanding ChatGPT and its Potential

ChatGPT, developed by OpenAI, is an advanced language model that can understand and generate human-like responses. It has access to vast amounts of information, making it a valuable tool for English language teaching. By leveraging ChatGPT's capabilities, teachers can create more engaging and personalized learning experiences for their students.

2. Creating Engaging Writing Prompts and Questions

Writing is a crucial skill in language learning, and ChatGPT can assist in generating creative and engaging writing prompts and questions. By using ChatGPT's vast database, teachers can create a wide range of topics suitable for different age groups and proficiency levels. This approach fosters creativity and critical thinking while providing students with ample opportunities to practice their writing skills.

3. Improving Grammar Skills

ChatGPT can be a valuable tool for improving grammar skills. Teachers can provide students with texts containing grammatical errors and ask them to correct the mistakes. Students can then input the corrected text into ChatGPT and compare its corrections with their own. This exercise helps students understand grammar rules and the limits of technology, while also encouraging independent thinking and analysis.

4. Expanding Knowledge and Personal Growth

Teachers can use ChatGPT as a tool for expanding their own knowledge and understanding of various subjects. By asking ChatGPT questions related to the topics they teach, teachers can deepen their understanding and discover new perspectives. This continuous learning process enhances their teaching abilities and enables them to provide more comprehensive and accurate information to their students.

5. Flipping the Classroom

Flipping the classroom is a teaching approach that involves students taking responsibility for their own learning outside of class, while class time is dedicated to discussions and activities. ChatGPT can play a pivotal role in this approach by providing students with homework assignments to learn new topics. Students can then teach what they have learned to their classmates, fostering collaboration, critical thinking, and presentation skills.

6. Providing Personalized Feedback

ChatGPT can assist in providing personalized feedback on students' writing and homework assignments. Teachers can copy students' work into the chat interface and ask ChatGPT to make corrections. While teachers should also provide their own feedback, ChatGPT can help identify errors that may have been overlooked, ensuring a comprehensive review process.

8. Generating Teaching Materials

Creating teaching materials can be time-consuming for teachers. However, ChatGPT can assist in generating lesson plans, teaching materials, and practice questions. By utilizing ChatGPT's capabilities, teachers can save time and focus on adapting and personalizing the materials to meet their students' needs.

9. Enhancing Conversation Skills for ESL Students

For ESL students, practicing conversation skills is crucial for language development. ChatGPT can serve as a conversation partner, allowing students to engage in realistic dialogues. By having conversations with ChatGPT, students can improve their speaking and listening skills in a safe and supportive environment. They can also analyze and correct their own conversations with ChatGPT's assistance.

How to keep fit during a busy semester

Written by Paola Montserrat Ortega Sanchez

Exercising should be a must to for everyone, but when we are trying to survive to a busy semester, working out seems to be the last of our priorities. But remember that working out has so many benefits that go beyond looking good. So, here we have 5 tips to keep on working even when we do not have plenty of time.

ORGANIZE YOUR TIME.

"No time" is the number one excuse that people use to avoid exercising. Trust me when I tell you that I have managed exercising one hour and a half daily while having a work and being a student, but that's not the point here. If you want to start to adopt working out as part of your lifestyle, 10 minutes of a physical activity should be enough (you can increase the time progressively).

CHOOSE AN ACTIVITY

There are plenty of options when it comes to physical activity. Maybe you can try running, walking, cycling, going to the gym, etc. Decide which one is better for you according to your preferences, and goals. Doing something that you enjoy decreases your chances of quitting.

FIND A PARTNER

Doing something unpleasant with a friend its always easier, isn't it? When you are doing something that you may not enjoy that much, having someone by your side (a friend, your couple, your uni-friend, etc) can make the process easier, and even make it fun.

Note: Don't be afraid of doing it alone, you will always find people in the path.

SET REALISTIC GOALS

When we start exercising biting more than we can chew is common. We set goals that are very difficult to achieve specially if you are a beginner, which ends up discouraging us when we see no results. Go little by little, do not attempt to do 500 squats and 200 push ups the first day, start by adding small amounts of exercise in your routine, once you begin to feel comfortable, you can increase the physical activity.

DO NOT GIVE UP!

Exercising should not be taken as something you have to do, but as something you want to do. Changes take time, sacrifices, discipline and overall commitment to yourself. Trust me when I tell you that exercising not only change your body, but it also change your mind, Doing something even though you don't want to will make you mentally stronger, which can be useful for the school.

Note: remember that building a healthy body takes more than just exercising, I know that going to school makes eating healthy difficult, but try to eat as healthy as possible. Also, take a moment to relax, meditate, read, etc. Love and take care of your body, a healthy lifestyle will help you to get along with the difficult student life.

Looking good feeling gorgeous!

ILLUSTRATION 101

Hi! this is Ness from 4th semester and this time I am going to give you some art tips you can take as a guide if you are interested in drawing, I hope you enjoy it as much as I did. Drawing is a very important part of my life and I am glad to share the little things I know and can be helpful for someone.

LET'S START PRACTISING!

Something I have learned through the years doing different artworks is: practice matters a lot!

So you can start by just doodling 20 minutes per day whatever thing comes to your mind (looking for inspiration online is a good idea, so it is getting a sketchbook.) during a couple of days first, then a week, a month, etc.

And after a couple of months your drawing will inevitably improve if you are consistent enough with it.

DO YOUR BEST TWICE

Another tip I will give to you all is that you can redraw some of your older artworks so you can observe how good you have become with the time and to give yourself pieces of advice for the future.

THEORY IS IMPORTANT

Sometimes learning some theory can make the difference. So you can go and take a look to the chromatic wheel. For starters, it is essential to grasp the primary colours: red, blue, and yellow. These form the basis of all other colours on the wheel.

Next, explore secondary colours obtained by mixing two primaries, like green, purple, and orange.

As a beginner, experimenting with the chromatic circle will open a world of possibilities, making your artwork and design projects truly stand out. So, grab your paintbrush and let the chromatic circle guide you on your colourful journey!

WHAT ABOUT THE ART SUPPLIES?

To begin with, you can acquire materials depending on the technique you would like to explore. (e. g. if you are interested in watercolours, buy a basic set with just the important colours and a little brush so you can learn to use them little by little. If you would like to do acrylics, get just the primary colours to start exploring the mixing and to get used to the textures.)

It is well known that using good supplies makes better pieces of art but it is important to also consider that they do not need to be the most expensive ones to work appropriately. The level of the artist is measured by the art itself more than the materials used and it all will depend on the talent, effort, energy and patience you put into it.

POUR SOME LOVE

The secret of many pieces of art I have done is love.

I appreciate every inch of what I am doing at the moment.

It is a pleasing sensation when I realize that all my time and efforts took a pretty shape once it is finished. Doing things with love will always enhance the experience.

So my last but not least tip is: Appreciate what you are doing and the whole creative process will be better than expected.
